

POTENTIALLY DANGEROUS SPECIAL ADDRESS NOTE AGREEMENT

Agencies for which Southeast Communications Center (SECOMM) provide service may request notes regarding potentially dangerous locations be added to the Computer Aided Dispatch (CAD) special address field. For tracking purpose requests must be made in writing by the chief officer following the "Request for Service" process.

Personnel responding to emergency events at locations noted as being a potentially dangerous address may be provided the information by SECOMM employees. Additionally, all users of the SECOMM CAD system will have access to the notes.

Special address information is automatically noted in the remarks of events created at the address. This information is routinely provided as part of public information requests and subpoenas.

SECOMM may provide, to an emergency response organization, information concerning a potential danger or dangers at the site to where the organization is responding. Nevertheless, SECOMM does not warrant that any information is accurate. Nor is the failure to provide information a guarantee or warranty that there is no danger at the site. SECOMM is providing such information on a voluntary basis. The organization and all its agents and individual responders agree not to hold BCES or their agents liable for any inaccurate information or for any failure to provide information. The organization and all its agents and individual responders agree to share any information it, he, or she has concerning any dangers at a site. The organization agrees it has authority to sign this agreement upon behalf of all of its agents and individual responders. The organization will hold BCES harmless from and indemnify BCES from any claims asserted against BCES or their agents by any of the organization's agents or individual responders except those claims that arise out of the sole negligence of BCES. The duty to indemnify shall include a duty to pay all reasonable attorney's fees and costs incurred in the defense of any such claim.
